Acknowledgments

My thanks to Yves Winkin for extended conversations about the content of this book, and not one but two helpful critical reviews. Other colleagues who answered questions about specific issues include Greg Smith, Philippe Vienne, Stuart Sigman, Jaime Duncan, Nancy Hornberger, Regna Darnell, Mary Hufford, Alice Kehoe, Fred Erickson, Harvey Sarles, and Phillip Guddemi. Robert Kleck graciously shared information about the conference he organized with Goffman's help in 1969 since there is virtually no documentation publicly available. Lorenza Mondada extended considerable effort in trying to help me locate further information about a grant proposal from the 1970s involving Goffman. Two blind reviewers helped provide an outside perspective, and useful suggestions, as did Dave Park, on behalf of mediastudies.press. And when it was all written, Emily Alex, the copyeditor for mediastudies.press, helped with a review of the writing and formatting, making the book stronger and more consistent; Jeff Pooley turned it from a manuscript into a book; Yan Qiu designed the front cover; and Natascha Chtena turned that into a front/back/spine final cover.

Thanks especially to Timothy Horning, but also Joseph-James Ahern at the University Archives and Records Center, as well as Alessandro Pezzati at the Penn Museum Archives, all at the University of Pennsylvania, for their substantial help in locating relevant materials; Tim went above and beyond to answer questions over the last several years. Thanks to Paul Sutherland at the American Philosophical Society, especially for letting me read files from the Hymes Papers still being catalogued and so not yet officially accessible on my first visit. Half a dozen others at APS helped me on several visits to access materials I needed; I did not get everyone's names but still appreciate their efforts. Mark Mahoney at Wenner-Gren Foundation; Alicia Gonzalez at New Mexico State University; Dean Smith at the Bancroft Library of the University of California, Berkeley; Aaron Lisec at the Southern Illinois University Special Collections Research Center; Stephanie Krauss at the Center for the History of Medicine at Harvard University; Sarah Wharton for the Harvard Law School Library; Sydnie Martin, Alexa Tulk, and Christine Colburn at the Hanna Holborn Gray Special Collections Research Center at the University of Chicago Library; Barbara Truesdell and Maesa Ogas at the Indiana University Center for Documentary Research and Practice; Carrie Schwier at the Indiana University Archives; Julia Dudley and Coral Silver at the Special Collections Research Center at Syracuse University; and Joseph Diaz and Erika Castaño at the University of Arizona archives all helped me access additional archival collections relevant to this project and their help is also much appreciated. Dan Drollette Jr., Executive Editor of the Bulletin of the Atomic Scientists, located an early essay published in that journal. Hartmut Mokros helped me track down an elusive article in Raritan Quarterly; Julie Meidlinger supplied a copy.

An early version of what has turned into chapters 3 and 4 was presented as “Erving Goffman’s ‘Invisible College’ at the University of Pennsylvania” to the Seminário Internacional “100 anos de Erving Goffman” [International seminar: 100 years of Erving Goffman] at the Universidade de Brasília, Brazil, on September 20, 2022, now published in Portuguese (Leeds-Hurwitz, 2024). My thanks to Édison Gastaldo, Gustavo Cunha, and Carlos Benedito Martins for the initial invitation and for giving me the rights to publish in English.
